

In the Abstract:

Please replace the Abstract with the following rewritten Abstract:

~~The invention relates to a method for the simplified testing of browser-adapting server applications, wherein key information is evaluated in order to adapt the browser-adapting server applications, said information being taken into account either directly or indirectly by an information-extracting browser. The inventive method is characterized in that the key information which is recorded by means of various other server applications of a large number of various browser types and versions is taken into account in order to check information-adaptation methods therewith.~~

A method for testing a browser-adapting server application includes collecting and recording, using another server application, key information of a number of browser types and/or versions. The information adaptation method of the browser-adapting server application is tested using the key information.